Andrew Medical designs and manufactures NEXOS 3D-printed dental implants at its own site near Milan, Italy. Made in Grade 5 titanium, each implant combines a solid core and a porous trabecular structure as one monobloc piece, mimicking the architecture of natural bone: a true three-dimensional surface, built in, not applied as a treatment. A conical connection with platform switching completes the design. The technology is patented and the implants are CE-marked under the EU Medical Device Regulation (MDR 2017/745).

Peer-reviewed in vitro studies of our surface report a favourable bone-cell response and lower bacterial colonisation than machined titanium.

Our Private Label and OEM programmes let partners offer this technology under their own brand, with a choice of connections. A full range of surgical instruments and prosthetic components completes the system, with stock ready to ship.
